POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

Zoot suit hoodlums whom the Army and Navy won't accept because of criminal records or tendencies, but who have attained military age, should be taken out of the bars and off the streets and placed in labor battalions—under the command of hard-boiled top-sergeants who will teach them the respect for law and order which their parents failed to instill in them!

That demand for a realistic work-or-fight approach to the zoot suit phase of California's juvenile (and adult) delinquency problem comes from George R. Reilly, San Francisco member of the State Board of Equalization, whose board administers liquor law enforcement.

"When we are sending our finest boys into the armed forces to fight and possibly die for their country," said Reilly, "it is unthinkable that we should permit young hoodlums, who are unfit for military service because of criminal records or tendencies to prowl the streets, molesting soldiers and sailors on leave and the civilian population.

"The recent riots in Los Angeles where Army and Navy men retaliated against zootsuiters who had been guilty of attacks on the wives of service men, have served to turn the spotlight on a problem that demands action by either the State or Federal government. If these zoot suit gangsters are unfit for military service, and the Army or Navy won't have them, they should nonetheless be compelled to contribute to the war effort, and I believe action should be taken to place them in labor battalions at Army pay and under Army discipline.

"Certainly they should be taken out of the bars and off the streets where they are a menace to the community and a burden on our already overburdened police and law enforcement agencies."

Mr. Reilly, who inaugurated the movement for a 12 o'clock curfew in bars and other drinking establishments during the war period, which has now been generally adopted, will suggest to his fellow members at their next meeting that the Board recommends action by the Federal government looking to the establishment of labor camps for zootsuiters who have been refused for military service.

"I recognize, of course, that all the kids who like a ripe stripe and a glad plaid aren't necessarily criminals," said Reilly, "but the hoodlums who have adopted baggy pants as a badge of defiance of law and order need to be put in overalls, if they are unfit to wear a uniform."

Sewall Brown Is Guest Speaker at Kiwanis Luncheon

Sewell Brown of Los Gatos, manager of the Vasona Pit plant, explained the "Manufacture and Use of Pit Products" at the Kiwanis club meeting Tuesday.

He said that from ten to 14,000 tons of apricot pits are handled in a year, with the price tied in with the product of Mediterranean almonds.

Among the uses he named for the meat of the pits is a paste that is made for bakeries; an oil for cosmetics, and kernel meal for fertilizer.

Shells are furnishing dynamite and charcoal and in driveways in place of gravel. Experimentation is still being carried on to find other uses for both shells and pits.

Owing to the intricate methods of manufacture, he stated that the most used of all fruit pits is the apricot, which is the simplest to prepare.

Visitors were Rev. Edwin Bowling of the Salinas club, a former member, Maurice Moore of Mountain View club, and Tom and Dave Farley.

Mark Purmort wielded the gavel for the program hour.

Next week John Lyndon will preside and present his son Richard Lyndan, president of the Warehousemen's Union in San Francisco, who will speak on "Trade Unionism in Wartime."

Stitching Club Enjoys Picnic at Bachman Home

The Ada Rebekah Stitching club enjoyed a pot luck picnic in the gardens of Mrs. William Bachman on June 8.

Officers for the coming year were ellected and installed as follows:

Mrs. Eva Bachman, president; Mrs. Josephine Keesaman, vice president; Mrs. Dolly Lanjis, secretary-treasurer. Outgoing officers were Mrs. A. D. Rice, president; Mrs. Katherine Jones, vice president; Mrs. Ellen Arnold, secretary-treasurer.

Red Cross work completed was reported as follows: six blouses, five wool pillows; 411 fracture pillows; 309 pillow cases; 70 wool lap robes; and two baby blankets.

The club felt the Red Cross work should continue through the summer, and any salvage materials will be greatly appreciated. The group will also meet throughout the summer to continue baking cookies for the U. S. O.

Second Lieutenant Willis Greene and P. F. C. Eugene Greene, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Greene of Casey road, had the uniquely happy occasion recently of accidentally meeting in a London department store. The brothers had not seen each other for two years and although one had been trying to locate the other had failed and so the accidental meeting was a real event.

Harold Shelley Writes to Brother Lodge Members

Members of Morning Light Lodge, I. O. O. F. received the following letter from Tech. Sergeant Harold Shelley recently and it is herewith printed because of its interest to others who have relatives and friends at the front.

North Africa
May 3, 1943

Dear Brothers:

Well, I think it is about time I was dropping you a line or two and letting you know everything is going along O. K. We have been pretty busy for the last few months and I hope by the time you get this letter this African war will be over. I suppose most of you think we have been in the desert all the time but most of the time we have camped in (censored). We are now camped in (censored) that reminds me of the (censored) the natives have a good crop of grain and a few vegetables.

During the winter months (censored) in on a field with an elevation of about (censored) thousand feet and it was anything but hot. We had snow, sleet and rain. I believe I spent about two of the most miserable months of my life at that place.. And all the time we were getting letters asking how we were standing the heat on the desert. The weather now is turning warm and the old sun sure feels good. We are getting good food, especially when they open up a few cans of Santa Clara valley apricots or pears.

We had yesterday off so a few of us went over to the coast and went swimming in the Mediterranean and had a look at some of North Africa. We can't buy a thing over here so everyone is saving what money we do get. A letter from home tells me you have given me credit for a year's dues which I certainly appreciate. If I ever get hold of any good old U. S. money I will try and get some of it over to you, we are being paid in francs. I sure will be glad to get back and come up and see you all.

Geraldine Jurras To Study In Mexico City

Leaving San Jose on the Daylight Sunday was Miss Geraldine Jurras, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Jurras of Campbell.

She stopped at Santa Barbara to visit with Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Bohnett, formerly of Campbell, and continued to Los Angeles, where she is spending several days with Mrs. V. Arnerich (Draga Slavich). From Los Angeles Miss Jurras is boarding a Pan-American plane for Mexico City where she plans on spending three months taking courses at theNational University, and traveling in Mexico.

Miss Jurras attended San Jose State college where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Sigma, and received her general secondary credential at Stanford last year. She is a member of the Salinas union High school faculty where she teaches Spanish. She will be accompanied on her trip by Miss Phyllis Dalziel, a fellow faculty member.

Before the departure, a group of her sorority sisters and friends gave a farewell party in honor of Miss Jurras. Those present were Ruth Robertson, Lourdes Santana, Verna Coonradt, Jewell and Jeanette Abbott, Eva Milovina and Evelyn Billick.

Two tickets to the Campbell theatre are awaiting Mr. and Mrs. Bert L. Burda, of the Campbell Hatchery. Call at the Press office.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bridges of Campbell are parents of a son, Wayne Henry, born June 11, at O'Connor sanitarium.

I like to think about the good times we used to have especially when I used to help Brother George Whipple tear those roast turkeys apart. Well, I guess this will be about all this time. Will try and write oftener. I hope this letter finds everyone well and not working too hard.

Sincerely,
Harold Shelley

FATHER'S DAY

The selection of General Eisenhower as America's number one father for Father's Day of 1943 is particularly fitting, not only as a tribute to a great job which one father has done, in his capacity as Commander-in-Chief of all United Nations' forces in North Africa, but also because it is a reminder of the sacrifices being made by many other fathers in carrying on this global struggle to a victorious conclusion.

This year Father's Day has a special significance, for the war has brought a keener realization of just what it means to be a father. No man can watch his son march off to war or leave his youngsters behind without feeling keenly the call his country must make upon him.

When the last war came to an end, many fathers breathed a prayer of thanksgiving that their sons would never have to experience what they had gone through, because the "war to end wars" supposedly had been won! Now they know that wars can only cease permanently when the fight is waged untiringly in times of peace against the forces of hatred, greed and intolerance which would undermine the peace. And they are coming to realize more than ever that this fight must be waged first within their own hearts—for the thoughts of each help to form the world pattern.

When peace is lived again, Father's Day will mean what it should—Dad and his family together, in pride and happiness.

WATCH THAT THOUGHT

The New York Academy of Medicine reports discovery of a poisonous substance which appears abruptly in the human blood under the influence of worry and fear. A bit of human blood just subjected to jitters upset the systems of experimental rabbits. So don't get the jitters! Whatever you are doing, try to find something to enjoy about it, and remember—don't worry!

If your laundry doesn't get home on time, if your butcher is touchy, if you have to wait a long time in line to cash a check, or hours to buy shoes, take an interest in what is going on around you. True, stores can't furnish circuses while we wait but we can look around us and note changes that have taken place, and look at the service flags and count the number of stars of enlisted men who have gone out.

Usually, there are mothers with small children standing in line, and the babies furnish considerable entertainment, if you're of a mind to be amused. So be amused. Life is different, but it is full of new adventures if we watch for them, instead of getting upset. The Academy states that as soon as jitters vanish, the bad blood vanishes with them. So don't jitter. Keep interested, keep cool, and enjoy whatever is going on around you. It's the only way to maintain good health.

YOUR NEWSPAPER

The OPA has decided to supply to newspapers monthly lists of official prices and required ration points for groceries, a proposal that has had good reception by the Committee of Newspaper Groups. Such lists will go out to some 300 cities in July.

Five by Five

Sergt. Roy C. Martin believes he is a round peg in a square hole. The five-foot nine-inch sergeant, who weighs 225 pounds, is a physical instructor. One of the exercises he is supposed to demonstrate for his class is how to bend down and touch your toes. He says, "Touch them? I can't even see them."

British Food Boost

Food production in Great Britain has increased about 50 per cent since the war began. This increase has been attained in spite of the fact that practically all able bodied men of draft age have been taken into the armed forces. Women and children do a great deal of the farm work.

SSH! DON'T SING!

Some years ago, before World War II had begun to sear the earth of Europe, Italy was a place of song and flowers, of Latin smiles and grace. It was up-to-date, progressive, developing. Even the "castor oil" period of the Fascisti finally gave place to a regime which people came to accept.

Street singers have always flourished in Italy, for song and smiles are natural to the Italian race. In a restaurant in Florence, there was a minstrel who had once sung in grand opera, in La Scala at Milan. He and a companion with mandolin, delighted travelers in that ancient city with their music. That restaurant was always filled.

When you arrived in the big station in Florence or Rome, perhaps a wedding party was waiting for a train, the bride and groom escorted by handsome men and maindens in evening dress, who were singing romantic songs while waiting for the train to leave.

Crossing some river bridge in the evening, you heard liquid voices behind the walls around you, singing. Song and sunshine—these were of the essence of Italy, while over all was the intense blue canopy of Italian skies.

Now open-air players of mandolins and other musical instruments in Italy will be liable to imprisonment! By order of Mussolini, the strolling minstrel has been banned. Song, the very heart and soul of Italy, must go the way of Benito's ambition for an austere, severely war-like Italy. A little too fondly, he dreams that to suppress all natural feeling will win the war for him.

Those to whom songs and smiles are most native never will make a war-like nation. When the mortal dreams of the Fascisti have gone the way of all flesh, the immortal soul of the country will awaken again. Italy will arise and sing.

A GROWING MENACE

Crime in California, as in all leading defense areas, is on the increase. The zoot suit gangsters who have made headlines in the Los Angeles area are but one example. An uncomfortable rise is srown in percentage figures for minor as well as more serious crimes. Robbery and sluggings are common—sinister result of boom times.

The crime wave must be dealt with. Just as the boom towns of the mother lode country attracted their share of hoodlums and criminals to batten on the honest citizens, so have many communities found themselves invaded today by criminal elements. Swollen city populations present a difficult problem for undermanned police departments already handicapped by the dim-out restrictions in coastal areas.

The crime situation presents the prospects of an even more serious menace after the war, should employment drop to low levels for a while. It will grow continuously worse unless effective steps are taken quickly by city, county, state and federal officials.

ON CLOTHES

June 1 was the second anniversary of clothes rationing in Britain. Next June 1 may find Americans following suit in more ways than one! With production down and buying up, signs point to rationing.

Coupon returns in Britain show that women spent slightly more in coupons than men, that elderly people surrendered their coupons to young adults.

The clothes rationing program saved public expenditure in Britain nearly three billion dollars, enough to pay for two navies each consisting of 15 battleships, 50 cruisers, 8 aircraft carriers and 130 destroyers! Clothes production in Britain is now 40 to 50 per cent of pre-war quantity.

New Citizens

The number of initial applications for citizenship during 1942, totaling 350,000, was the greatest on record. Similarly, the total number of naturalizations during the year, approximately 252,000, has been exceeded only once.

Two tickets to the Campbell theatre are awaiting Mr. Mrs. W. R. Wardwell, Johnson avenue, Call at the Press office.

"Tanks" in the Victory Garden . . . BEETLES

Our soldiers abroad find enemy tanks tough customers because the ordinary weapons of war bounce off their hides and do no damage. In the Victory Garden the "tanks" are the beetles and any experienced gardener will tell you that their shells are tough and thick and especial care is necessary to keep control of the situation.

Most Victory Gardens will have in them some vine plants such as squash, cucumbers, melons, pie pumpkin and the like. This means cucumber beetles to contend with. They are the smart ones. If you spread arsenical poison on the surface of the leaves they detect it and go to a clean feeding ground. There are two kinds of cucumber beetle, one with a striped back and one with a spotted back but both are equally active on foot and on the wing and are quick to get away from danger if they suspect it.

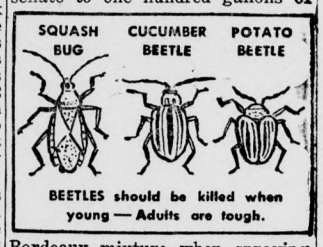
There are two methods of attack—one is by cultivation at the base of the plant to destroy the eggs which are laid in yellow clusters—the other is to spray the beetles with a contact spray made of 2 teaspoonfuls of Black Leaf 40 in a gallon of water with enough soap added to make suds. You must strike the beetles with this spray and wet them down to kill them.

Another of the tough customers on your vine crop is the squash bug. The adult is almost immune to either stomach poison or contact spray and the way to control it is to kill the young in the nymph stage. About the only way to kill the grown bug is to crush him. This is a tough job if you have a large planting, so spraying to kill the young bugs should begin early if any adults are seen so that the youngsters will be destroyed as they hatch. A good Black Leaf 40 dust is also effective on the young. Directions for making this dust will be given later in this series.

Another insect with a hard shell is the potato beetle, sometimes known as the Colorado potato bug. This insect when grown is almost entirely safe from contact sprays but is easily killed by a stomach poison. Paris green, also lead arsenate, are the well established treatments here and quickly get control if the plants are well covered. Thorough spraying is necessary though. The young of the potato beetle are small reddish brown soft bodied slugs and are easily killed by Black Leaf 40. If the potatoes are being sprayed with Bordeaux for blight, Black Leaf 40 should be added. This will kill the aphis on the vines and will also kill the young of the potato beetle, and it is all done with one job of spraying.

The adult Mexican bean beetle lays eggs of orange-yellow hue, attaching them to the under-side of the leaf. These eggs hatch in a week or two and out comes a fat worm, which grows to about one-third of an inch long and half as wide. It is yellow, has black-tipped spines on its back and has a heavy appetite. In due time it passes through the pupa stage and in about thirty days after the egg is laid it becomes a full-grown beetle.

Control is attained through poisonous dusts applied to the underside of the leaves, or by adding three pounds of calcium arsenate to one hundred gallons of Bordeaux mixture when spraying for fungus diseases.



BEETLES should be killed when young — Adults are tough.

Spraying of poisonous material on pod or green beans should be avoided in latter part of the season when harvesting time approaches. Arsenic is, of course, poisonous to mankind, and will do harm if this material clings to the pods which are eaten. Thorough control early in the season is the answer on this kind of bean so that when the later weeks come around, there will not be Mexican Bean Beetles to contend with.

Again we say with a monotony that we hope will sink into the minds of every Victory Gardener—Spray early! Spray often! Hit the first bugs seen—Don't give them a chance to multiply.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"Short Cut to Tokyo" The Battle for the Aleutians by Corey Ford.

"History can turn on a very small hinge. The history of Alaska, and perhaps the history of the American continent swung last June on a little handful of land-based fighter planes and bombers, appearing out of nowhere in the swirling Aleutian fog . . "

This is the first book entirely about the Aleutians—the first eye-witness account of what has been going on in these islands since this loneliest American outpost broke into the news. The author brings the Aleutians out into the open—or perhaps more aptly phrased—he opens our eyes and minds to the Aleutians. The detailed account of how the Japs got into the islands, just how many of them there were, how many ships they took there and what their plans were Mr. Ford has forcefully and plainly told us, and in the telling he has added several bombs, self-styled, loaded with truth that should shatter everyone's complacency.

The battle for the Aleutians, perhaps, is no different in perspective, from the battle for the Solomons, or the war in Africa or battles on any one of the many other fronts today, but the Aleutians are islands that belong to America and the enemy has dared to invade them. The average citizen today in these United States does not take time to read the daily papers which give brief accounts of battles on all fronts, and even if he did he would not get detailed and first hand information about them. This is a short book. In all it only consists of some 150 pages, but each line on each page is weighted with news—news to all of us. News that we never had the slightest idea could ever be true.

Did you ever hear that there are no trees on the Aleutains? Have you read or heard that our Army and Navy have established flying fields on seemingly impossible barren wastes in Alaska? Perhaps you had a hazy illusion, or had faint remembrances of having overheard a remark about what our fighting forces are doing up there and have done. "Short Cut to Tokyo" affords a short cut to information, valuable, timely and inspiring to every one of us.

COLONIAL BEGINNINGS
AMONG HISTORY'S MOST THRILLING STORIES IS THAT OF OUR MERCHANT MARINE. IT'S FIRST CHAPTERS, LIKE MANY LATER ONES, WERE WRITTEN FROM STERN NECESSITY . . .
IT BEGINS WITH THE TERRIBLE WINTER OF 1607, WHEN THE DISCOURAGED POPHAM COLONISTS ON THE KENNEBEC RIVER, MAINE, HEWED FROM THE FOREST THE FIRST AMERICAN-BUILT COMMERCIAL VESSEL, THE 30 TON PINNACE VIRGINIA, AND SAILED IN HER TO ENGLAND.
THE NEW ENGLAND COLONISTS, LACKING VIRGINIA'S TOBACCO CROP AND FERTILE SOIL, TURNED TO THE SEA FOR THEIR LIVELIHOOD.
THE BAY 1630
GREATEST FRIEND OF OUR COLONIAL SHIPPING WAS JOHN WINTHROP, FIRST GOVERNOR OF MASSACHUSETTS, WHOSE TINY SLOOP, "BLESSING OF THE BAY," 1630, TRADED ALONG THE NEW ENGLAND COAST AND EVEN WITH THE DUTCH ON MANHATTAN ISLAND.
FROM THOSE MODEST BEGINNINGS COASTAL AND INTERCOASTAL TRADE GREW STEADILY. BY THE TIME OF OUR ENTRANCE INTO THIS WAR, MORE THAN HALF OUR TOTAL TONNAGE WAS DEVOTED EXCLUSIVELY TO THOSE OPERATIONS.

HOW ELECTRIC POWER HELPS BUILD SHIPS
J. A. Krug, director of the WPB Office of War Utilities, says: "I do not know of a single instance in which the operation of a war plant has been delayed by the lack of electric power supply... There is today no shortage of power."
Each Shipyard Worker uses ELECTRICITY equal to the service needs of SIX average six-room homes

IN CALIFORNIA'S record-breaking shipyards the manpower production of skilled hands is multiplied manifold by the extensive use of electricity.

Electric energy in the hands of each shipyard worker is sufficient to provide complete electric service for six average six room homes. It is equal to the strength of 2½ horses working steadily eight hours.

Other war industries are also requiring more and more power service. Electric power demands have reached new peaks.

To meet the 1942 peak power demand, more than 300,000 horsepower of generating capacity was added to our interconnected system.

To speed war work in 1943, additional power plants now being rushed to completion will add another 300,000 horsepower of capacity during this year and that also will be fully employed in the all-out war effort.

To keep California "power-full in production" and to meet the new demands of an all-out fighting war is the determination of this company's 12,000 employees. It is their pledge to the more than 2100 P. G. and E. men and women in the armed forces in all parts of the world.
